Finland as a country of emigration

Finland has traditionally been a country of emigration. During the past one hundred years over 1,4 million people have moved to other countries.

In Finnish history one can separate several different eras of extremely large migration. The first era was in the 16th and 17th centuries, when Finns settled down in the uninhabited backwoods in the middle parts of Sweden.

The most important wave of emigration took part from the 1860's and went on to the 1930's, when emigrants headed mainly for North America. The next wave of same dimension was the emigration to Sweden which started in the 1950's and diminished in the 1970's.

1,4 million emigrants from Finland 1860–2008

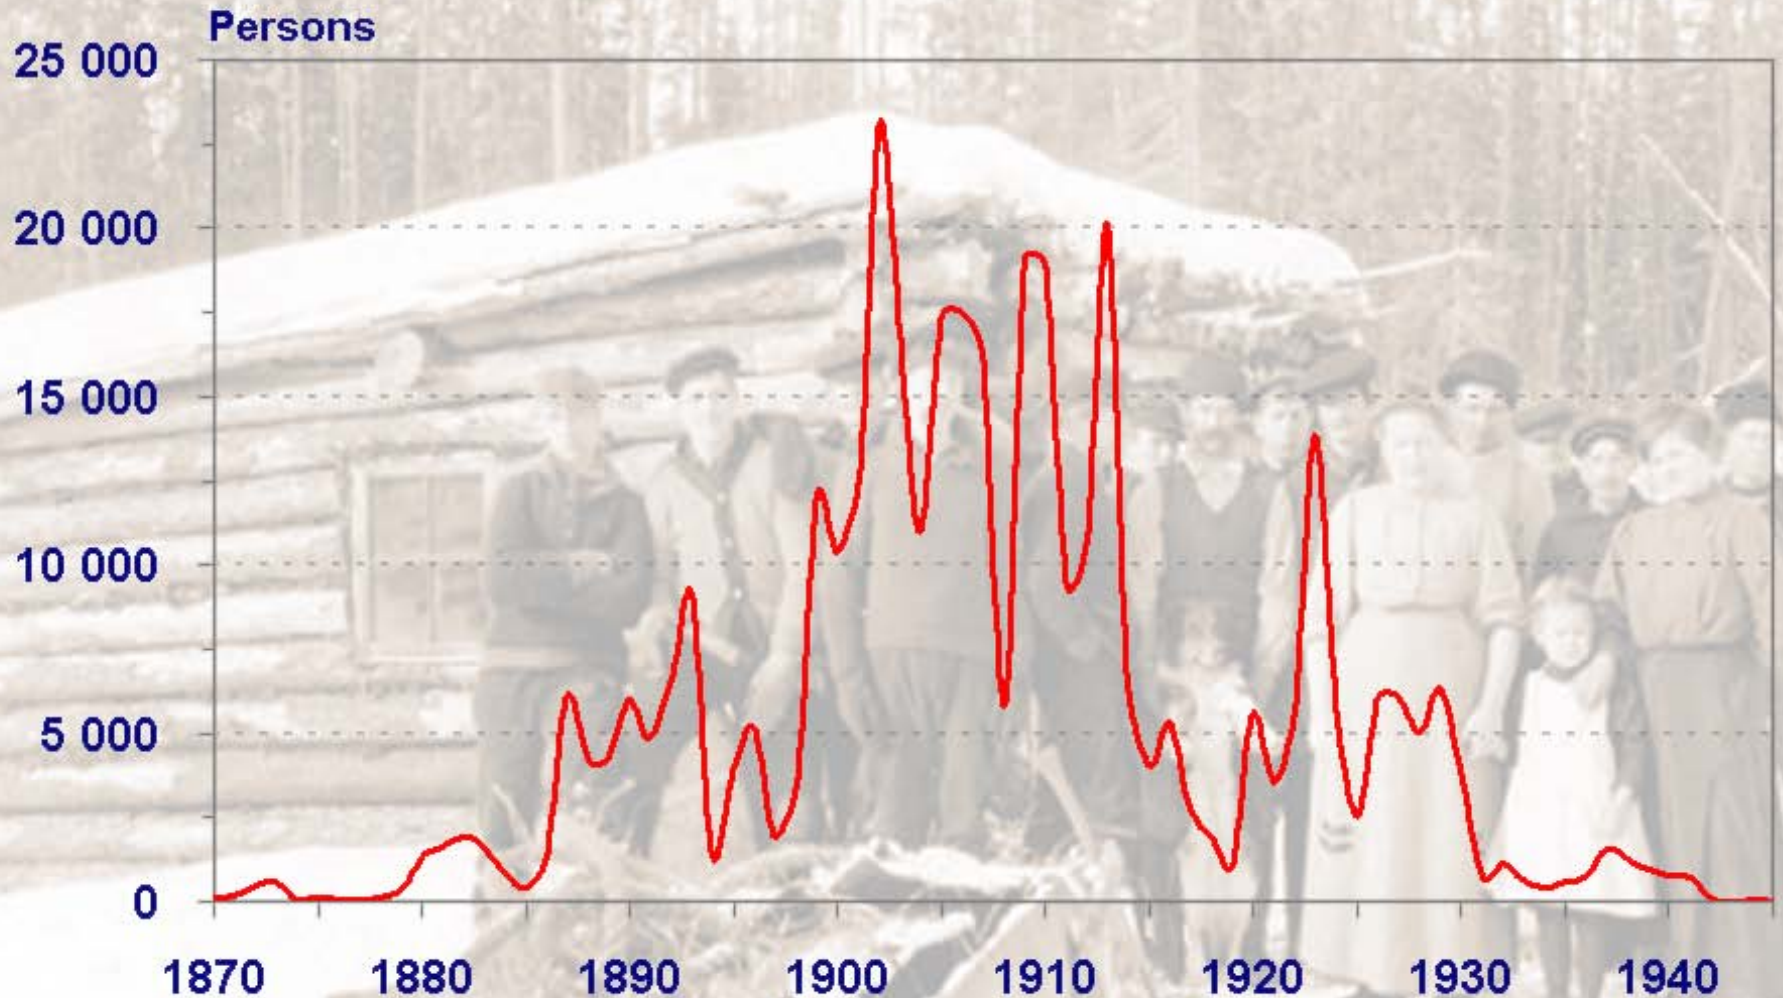

Today there are ca. 1,5 million people of Finnish origin living in other countries

The great emigration to North America

- The great migration of Finns to North America occurred during the late 19th and early 20th century. Between the years 1864 and 1914 well over 300,000 Finns settled in the USA and Canada. The “America Fever” started in the 1870’s and became a mass movement in the following decade.
- Emigration continued on a large scale until the outbreak of World War I. When the U.S. Government began to restrict the admission of immigrants in the 1920’s, Finnish emigration shifted to Canada.
- The Finnish emigration to the U.S. was higher than the official statistics of these years reveal, because many immigrants who officially were not admitted to the U.S. went first to Canada and then crossed the border between the countries.

According to statistics the total number of emigrants was approx. 400,000

The areas of emigration in Finland

- The Finnish emigrants to North America originated mainly from north western Finland. Nearly half of them came from the province of Vaasa. They were young people, around 20 years of age, the majority were men and unmarried.
- The structural change in agriculture had created a population surplus, and jobs outside agriculture were scarce in Finland. In North America work was available for men in mines, lumber camps, factories and railroad construction. Women gained employment as maids in the homes of wealthy Americans.

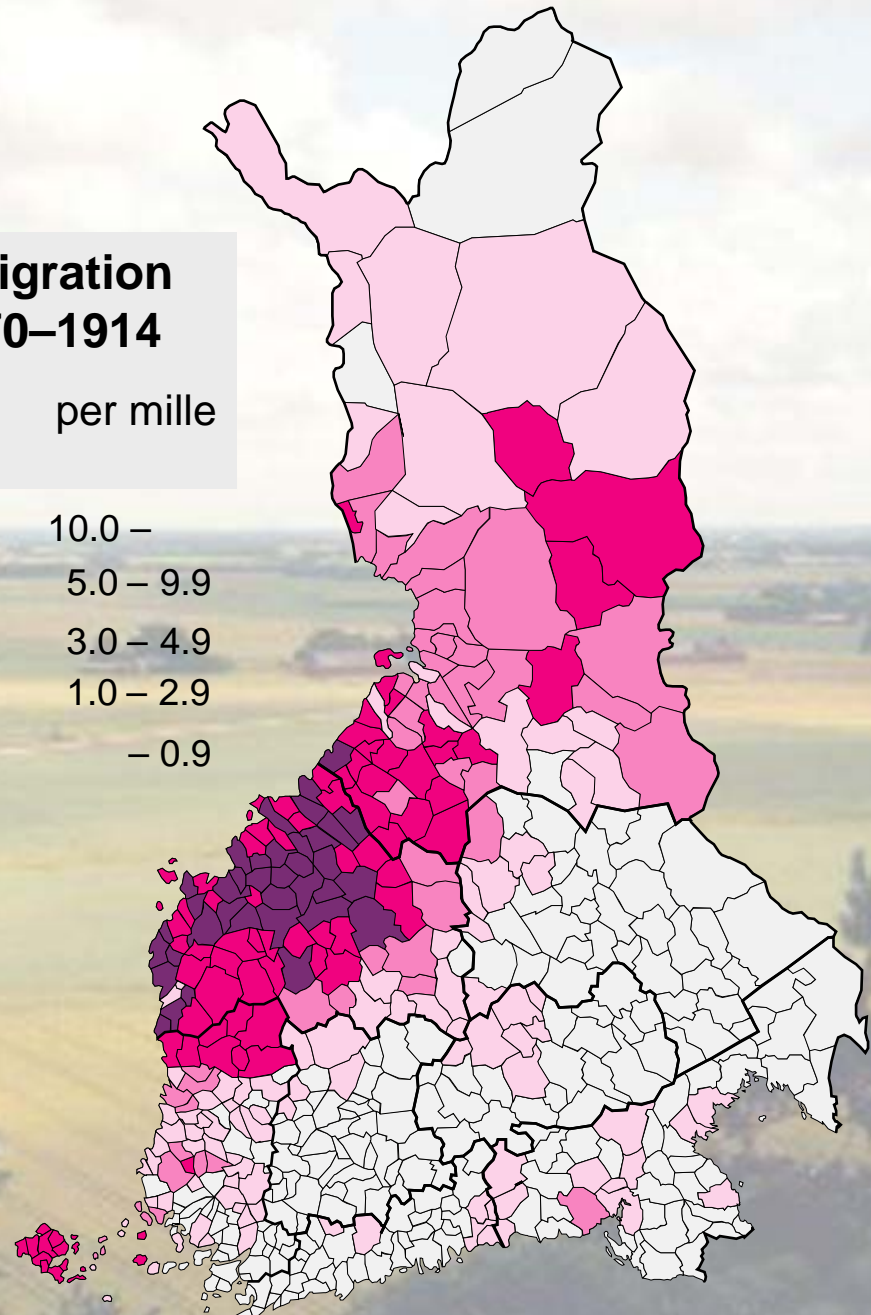

The areas of departure

Half of the Finnish emigrants that went to North America during the years 1867–1930 came from the old Vaasa province.

Buying the travel ticket

- From the beginning of the 1870's to the middle of the 1880's Finnish emigrants travelled almost exclusively by way of Sweden and they bought their tickets in either Stockholm or Gothenburg.
- Already in the 1870's some Finns travelled with so-called prepaid tickets, which immigrants in America sent to their relatives in Finland.
- From 1886 emigrants were able to buy their tickets in Finland.

The price of tickets

- The price of the ticket depended on the passenger class, the length of the travel, the time period and the shipping company.
- In 1900, for example the ticket from Hanko to New York cost 181 FIM (approx. 697 € in 2008 money value). The price included the voyage, food and usually also train journeys in Finland, England and America.

According to Anna-Leena Toivonen (1963) the travel was financed as follows:

- 36,5 % private or bank loan
- 30,6 % own savings, selling the farm, inherited or parent's money
- 32,9 % Prepaid ticket received from America
(usually sent by father or other family member)

The Journey

- During the opening phases of emigration, the departure occurred from some Ostrobothnian coastal town, whence the trip proceeded first to Stockholm, then by train to Gothenburg and with a ship to Hull. It was also possible to board a ship in Malmö.

- At the beginning of the 1890's however, Hanko became the most common port of departure, from which the trip continued to Stockholm, Copenhagen, Lübeck or Hull.
- When the Finland Steamship Company gained its monopoly as the transporter of emigrants, the Hanko–Hull course became almost the only route used by Finns.

The majority of emigrants arrived in North America through Castle Garden & Ellis Island in New York. Other important ports were Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Quebec and Halifax.

NEW YORK HARBOR AND INCOMING STEAMER, NEW YORK CITY.

Inspection process at Ellis Island

First and second class passengers were not required to undergo the inspection process at Ellis Island. Instead, these passengers underwent a cursory inspection aboard ship. The Federal government felt that these more affluent passengers would not end up in institutions, hospitals or become a burden to the state. However, first and second class passengers were sent to Ellis Island for further inspection if they were sick or had legal problems.

http://www.ellisland.org/genealogy/ellis_island_history.asp

The steerage and third class passengers were transported from the pier by ferry or barge to Ellis Island where everyone would undergo a medical and legal inspection. If the immigrant's papers were in order and they were in reasonably good health, the Ellis Island inspection process took 3–5 hours. The ship's manifest log contained the immigrant's name and his/her answers to 29 questions. This document was used by the legal inspectors at Ellis Island to cross examine the immigrant during the inspection.

Immigrants Landing at Ellis Island, circa 1900

Only two percent of the arriving immigrants were excluded from entry. The two main reasons why an immigrant would be excluded were if a doctor diagnosed that the immigrant had a contagious disease that would endanger the public health or if a legal inspector thought the immigrant was likely to become a public charge or an illegal contract laborer.

Genealogist in the footsteps of emigrants

Start your search in documents found at home

- The most important task is to determine the place in Finland where the family originally came from and what was the original Finnish name of the ancestors, which may have changed after arriving in the country of destination, intentionally or through marriage.

- Interviewing a relative can give lots of information, which cannot be found in any document.
- Notes about births, marriages and deaths in the old family bible provide valuable information when starting genealogical research. This information might, however, be incomplete and incorrect.
- Almost every family keeps birth-, marriage- and death certificates in their home archives, which are of great interest. Also old school-, military- and retirement records as well as membership records of associations and organizations give information on life of old. Often documents like deeds of estate distribution, land acquisition and the like can be found at home.

Passport records

According to a regulation from 1862 all Finns needed a passport to travel abroad. Passports were issued by county government boards (lääninhallitus in Finnish, länsstyrelse in Swedish), borough administrators in towns (maistraatti in Finnish, magistrat in Swedish), sheriff of the Åland Islands, sheriff of Lapland and the Finnish passport bureau in St. Petersburg. The oldest passport list is from 1810 and the lists are complete since 1893.

Original documents are microfilmed and available at the Institute of Migration

- In the passport lists usually only the country of destination is mentioned, not the exact place: America, North America, the United States, Canada or only abroad.
- Usually the passport was issued a few days or weeks before the journey. Sometimes illness or lack of money delayed or inhibited the journey, so finding a person in a passport list does not guarantee that the person actually emigrated.
- All emigrants are not found in the passport lists. It was easy to cross the border to a neighbouring country without a passport and it was no problem to continue the journey without any official documents. Additionally, those who left the country illegally, particularly men of age for Russian military service, travelled illegally with a falsified or someone else's passport or without any passport at all.

- If the journey to the capital of the province was long and tedious, the passport could be acquired at some other county government office on the way or at the port of departure at the borough administrator in Hanko.
- Between 20 and 30 per cent of the emigrants got their passport outside their own province.
- The most important passport information for the genealogist is the home parish. It is not necessary the same as place of birth, but it helps to find the home parish of the family in Finland and it gives the name the emigrant used at home.

Passenger Lists of The Finland Steamship Company (F.Å.A.)

(Finska Ångfartygs Aktiebolaget – Suomen Höyrylaiva Osakeyhtiö)

In 1892 the authorities decided that ships should have passenger lists. Most of F.Å.A.'s passenger lists have survived and are being held by the manuscript collection of the Library of Åbo Akademi, the Swedish-language university. The collection totals 145 folio-sized bound books. Copies of the original records are available at the Institute of Migration.

- The passenger lists of the The Finland Steamship Company are available for the period 1891–1896, 1899–1914 and since 1920 into the 1960s. There are numerous deletions and cancellations on the lists, remarks concerning noshows, extra charges, comments on passengers not accepted on the grounds of a disease etc. The passenger lists are of third class passengers, that is, emigrants. First and second class passengers can be found on the lists if a third class passenger paid an extra charge to be able to travel more comfortably.
- Birth dates and domicile were not recorded, so it might not be an easy task to identify the sought passenger among those with the same name. The spelling mistakes are numerous and the age might also be false. If the domicile of the emigrant in Finland is unknown, the passenger lists do not suffice and the passport information is necessary.

- Passengers from Swedish ports are listed since 1869.
 Most of the Finnish emigrants through Sweden can be found in the passenger lists of Gothenburg, but also among those who departed from Stockholm and Malmö. Swedish records are available at <http://www.emiweb.se> and at <http://www.ancestry.com>
- The records of the Finnish emigrants travelling through Gothenburg (over 50,000 records) are coming online as part of the emigrant register of the Institute of Migration.

- The emigrants from Norway used the ports of Bergen, Fredrikstad, Kristiansand, Kristiansund, Larvik, Oslo (Kristiania), Sandfjord, Stavanger, Tromsø, Trondheim and Ålesund. The emigrants from Finland commonly used the ports of Trondheim and Bergen. The Norwegian passenger lists are available at <http://www.norwayheritage.com>

Finnish Gravemarkers in Canada

 = Link showing gravestone pictures. Links without an orange square show cemetery transcriptions.

On these pages one finds pictures of Finnish gravemarkers and cemetery transcriptions from Finnish cemeteries outside of Finland. They may be to the memory of individuals who once emigrated from Finland or to their descendants.

The purpose is to create a database with pictures from cemeteries where everyone is of Finnish descent as well as from cemeteries where descendants of Finns are in the minority. The picture database is a complement to the cemetery transcriptions from Canada already published at www.genealogia.fi and included in the index in the left window, and to the photos in the Picture Gallery at www.genealogia.fi.

Gravemarkers at cemeteries will not stand there forever. They are removed because of economic realities, or they are destroyed because of natural causes. Gravemarkers are important both for the history of individuals and their families, and for cultural history. Unfortunately, no attention has been paid to the systematic photographing of gravemarkers and to the archiving of the material. For that reason the Genealogical Society of Finland has created this web page, and administers the work of p

Suomalaisten siirtolaisuus - lyhyt katsaus

<http://www.genealogia.fi/emi/>

Sukututkija törmää usein henkilöihin, jotka ovat muuttaneet Suomesta lähinnä Ruotsiin tai Amerikkaan. Amerikan sukulaisten selvittämisestä on monelle tullut melkein "urheilu". Tällä sivulla on lyhyt katsaus maastamuutosta, kirjallisuusluettelo sekä linkkejä kotisivuihin, joista voi olla hyötyä siirtolaisten etsimisessä.

Suomi on perinteisesti ollut maa, josta on muutettu pois. Viimeisen sadan vuoden aikana on yli miljoona suomalaista muuttanut muihin maihin. Palanneita on 20-40 % riippuen ajankohdasta ja kohdemaasta. On arvioitu, että ilman siirtolaisuutta Suomessa olisi nykyään 6-7 miljoonaa asukasta.

Suomen historiassa voidaan erottaa useita jaksoja, jolloin siirtolaisuudesta on tullut kansanvaellus. Ensimmäinen jakso oli 1500- ja 1600-luvuilla, jolloin suomalaiset asettuivat asumaan uudisasukkaina Keski-Ruotsin asumattomille metsäalueille, osa jopa Norjan puolelle.

Merkittävin muuttoaalto alkoi 1860-luvulla ja jatkui 1930-luvulle. Tällöin suomalaiset muuttivat lähinnä Pohjois-Amerikkaan. Seuraava vastaavan suuruinen aalto oli Ruotsiin muutto 1950-luvulta 1970-luvun puoleen väliin. Se oli niin voimakas, että Suomen väkiluku iona pieneni Kolme vuotta takaperin ostivat liiketalon ja sen viereisen laajan tontin, laajentaen ja järjestäen kauppaliikkeensä nykyaikaiseksi liikehuoneeksi, käsitellen parhainta liha- ja ruokatavaraa. Viime vuonna osti Mr. Lepistö oman asuntotalon heidän liikehuoneensa läheisyydestä, joten hän on tullut huomattavan kiinteimistön omistajaksi.

Kauppias Nestori Lepistön toiminta osottaa järkipäisyyttä, ahkeruutta ja johdonmukaisuutta, jotka ovat ne ominaisuudet, joilla hän liikekumppaninsa kanssa on kohonnut vakavaraiseen asemaan ja saavuttanut yleisön suosion ja kannatuksen.

Efraim Lohela, kauppias Hancockissa, on syntynyt Pyhäjärvellä, Oulun läänissä tammikuussa v. 1882. Tuli Amerikkaan kesällä v. 1902 Kuparisaarelle. Toimittuaan liikeapulaisena tšekäläisissä liikkeissä, avasi keväällä v. 1908 miesten vaatetuskaupan South Rangella, jossa hänellä oli liikekumppanina Mr. Sakari Olkkonen. Harjoitettuaan kauppaa v. 1911, muutti Lohela Hancockiin, jossa Mr. Nes-

The brave Finn

A Finn in Texas sat by the campfire with some cowboys. Suddenly he spots a scorpion, grabs a stick from the ground and smashes it flat.

- “Wow, that was brave, said one of the cowboys.”
- “Dat was nothing, said the Finn modestly.”
- “But you sure gotta have guts to kill a scorpion with a rattlesnake.”

Emigrants

Here we have collected all the databases/pages about those who have moved around or at least been registered as about to move. The word "emigrant" has thus been given a wider meaning than just those who left the country. The latter can be found in the emigration protocols, the passport registers or in the ship's lists.

The original sources for these databases/pages are preserved in a number of differing archives, in different places. The majority of the material recorded comes from Norwegian sources, but there is some material from foreign sources as well.

More emigrants?

Lists in church registers over those who have moved can include the names of emigrants. Look under the category "Church registers" – sub-category "Migrants".

Norway Heritage Project has collected the names of thousands of emigrants from Norway before 1875.

In the period from 1892-1954 all emigrants to the USA had to travel via an immigration station, apart from 1. and 2. class passengers. The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation has made it possible to search among all the Ellis Island and other ports for the period 1892-1924.

The National Archives of Canada holds immigration records from 1865 to 1935. The names of immigrants arriving from overseas are recorded in passenger lists. Those arriving from or via the United States are recorded in border entry lists. A series of old nominal indexes exist for the 1925 to 1935 records. In cooperation with the National Archives of Canada, the Pier 21 Society in Halifax, Nova Scotia, has input the information from the passenger list indexes into this database.

Also included are border entries for individuals whose surname starts with the letter C.

Searching ancestor's in Finland

- Genealogical research in Finland is mainly based on church records. The oldest records start in the first half of 1600s. Nearly all church records and other documents until the second part of the 19th century are written in Swedish.
- At one time it was the task of church to take care of some duties for the crown. One such duty was to keep a population register, needed for local administration and to collect taxes and recruit soldiers to the army.
- In Finland everyone had to be a member of the church until 1923. Still today about 86 percent of the population are members of the church.
- The church continued to take care of the population register until 1999 when state took over.

Finnish church records

- Oldest church books usually consist of records of births, marriages and deaths as well as accounts. These are called history books.
- A database of history books, the HisKi database, is found on the web at <http://www.genealogia.fi>.
- But the most important church records are the communion books (in Finnish rippikirja, in Swedish kommunionbok). The communion books include information of families and single people living on the same farm for a period of 5 or 10 years.
- Finland's Family History Association is digitizing Finnish genealogy research materials, including communion books, and placing them online at http://www.sukuhistoria.fi/sshy/index_eng.htm.
- Is it possible to do genealogy in Finland without using communion books? It is possible, but not recommendable.

Finland's Family History Association

Last modified

A project for digitizing archived materials

The FFHA was founded in 2004. The goal of our association is to provide an online source of archived materials such as communion books, census records etc. for everyone interested in genealogy.

The project is totally run by volunteers. You too can help! If you want to supply your local library or genealogical society with leaflets about FFHA, a PDF-file can be found on our member pages. You can also request the file by sending an e-mail to info (a) sukuhistoria.fi.

All the digitized material is available to everyone free of charge. We do however appreciate paying members and donations, since we need them to keep the site alive. We finally reached our goal and purchased a microfilm scanner to be used solely for digitizing archived material. Thanks to all our members and contributors we have so far managed to get three scanners, that are being used around Finland.

The password has been changed! (updated 22.04.2010)

The password for the member pages has changed. All members whose payments are up to date should have received the new password. If you haven't received yours, make sure to check your spam and trash folders before contacting info. A number of joining fee invoices was sent to members by mistake when we sent out the passwords. Please disregard these invoices.

Please inform us if your e-mail address changes!

The Digiarchives contain 416 parishes, 13 252 books, 2 886 460 images (22.4.2010).

Communion book page

- A good deal of Finnish church records are microfilmed and available on roll film or microfiche. In Finland everyone can use them in the National Archives in Helsinki. The seven provincial archives have films from their own region, as do most of the county libraries and many city libraries from the surrounding parishes. Most will arrange interlibrary loans for their customers. They can also be bought from the Provincial Archives of Mikkeli and from the National Archives, which also sends interlibrary loans abroad.
- To get access to newer records (1900-) one must turn to the parish register office in Finland. Parish register offices have to give the information for genealogical purposes according to the law and they charge a fee for their service.
- The microfilms of older records can also be found in the Mormon Church Family History Library in Salt Lake City, Utah. The library serves local Family History Centers (FHC) with loans of the films in both the United States and Canada.
- The Finnish American Heritage Center at Suomi College in Hancock, Mich. has also several thousand rolls of these records.

More information: <http://www.genealogia.fi/emi/art/article215e.htm>

Other genealogical sources in Finland

- There are many alternative sources like court, census and land records, tax indexes and sheriffs accounts in different archives. Some may, of course, also be missing, but usually one can find a source to use instead of the church records. Church records are in general easy to use, while alternative sources are more complex.
- A summary called Suomen Asutuksen Yleisluettelo, SAY (General Index of Finnish Settlement) has been compiled from many tax records.
- Finnish tax records can also be used in North America because the Mormon Family History Library has most of the microfilm rolls.
- The original records are written using old handwriting styles and are in Swedish to the end of 1800's.

About the Finnish naming system

The major key in family research is to know the names of ancestors. In Finland the naming system is historically very complicated.

It is important to know the division of Finland into two different cultural areas, Eastern and Western. The sharp border between the two areas is not visible only in family names, but also in buildings, methods of agriculture and many other ways.

The names brought to North America by Finnish migrants transformed in a certain manner because of the Finnish type of names.

In Eastern Finland

family names were mainly formed out of given names of individuals, which may have been the patriarchs of the families. One important rule was the inheritance of the names. A son-in-law accepted by the family could get the name of his father-in-law. Women stayed within the family and kept their fathers' name, even if they were married.

New names developed when clans were divided. A new name developed from the name of the patriarch, or, was based on the name of the place where the new clan lived.

A characteristic of the names are the endings -nen or -inen as in Kekkonen, Laukkanen and Koponen. The names of women usually had the ending -tar or -tär: Kekkotar, Laukatar and Kopotar.

In Western Finland

people were identified by a combination of a given name and a father's name, a patronymic. A patronymic is formed by attaching an ending -son or -dotter to a given name (-poika and -tytär in Finnish). Thus "Olof Johansson" is "Olof, the son of Johan". In three generations there may be a chain Per Nilsson (grandfather) > Johan Persson (father) > Maria Johansdotter (daughter). Patronymic names were NOT INHERITED from one generation to the next one.

When laws about family names were introduced in Finland and Sweden in the early 1900's, many individuals decided to make a patronymic to an inheriting family name. That's why many of the Swedes today have family names ending in -son.

In the beginning of the 1900's a majority of people in the western parts of Finland had accepted family names. Many started to use the farm name as a family name. The difference between a family name and a farm name is that family names are inherited to younger generations, while farm names change when individuals move from one farm to another.

Farm names usually have an ending -la or -lä as in Anttila, Lukkarila and Takala. Many of the farm names originate in given names: Pekkala is a place where Pekka lives.

There are also examples of farms which got the name from some family coming as settlers from the eastern cultural area. Someone with the name Taskinen moved from the Savo area to northern Ostrobothnia, and settled on a farm which got the name Taskila. Names built up of two different parts as Koivuhakola, Tikanoja and Ojajarju are also common.

Other types of names

• Soldier Names

In the kingdom of Sweden-Finland a system with soldiers kept up by farms were introduced in the 1600's. To separate all the men with similar names (given name + patronymic) a law stated that soldiers should have distinct additional names. In the index of soldiers everyone got an easy-to-use name like Harnesk (armour), Vacker (beautiful), Klinga (blade, sword), and Trumpet (trumpet). In the beginning the names were Swedish, but later Finnish names were used. When a soldier retired he could take back his original family name or he could return to his given name plus patronymic. It was also possible for him to continue using the soldier's name.

• Craftsmen

Craftsmen living and working in towns had to use family names. The names are usually Swedish and they are still in use by many families, even if they sometimes have been changed to more Finnish sounding names.

• Educated People

Already in the 1600's educated people such as pastors started to use family names. They usually had a given name plus patronymic, but used in Latin as Henricus Petri (Henrik Pettersson). Sometimes they took a family name relating to a home town and it was not uncommon to change the family name. The names were typically ending on -us, -ius, -ensis (from Latin) or -ander (from Greek). Kalajoki > Calamnius (joki = river = amnis in Latin), Wegelius (wegg = wall in old Swedish spelling; adopted from the river Seinäjoki in Ostrobothnia, seinä = wall), Kekkonen > Kekoni, Kettunen > Alopaeus (kettu = fox = alopex in Latin), Savisaari > Argillander (savi = clay = argilla in Latin), etc.

- Translations and other name changes

Family names in Finland adopted during the last 200–300 years were usually Swedish sounding (except for the names from the eastern area). In the end of the 1800's nationalistic thoughts arose and people started to change names to more Finnish-sounding names. Common Finnish names were also changed to uncommon names.

There are many different types of translated names. Some are direct translations, while other are ingenious inventions. Some examples: Hornborg > Sarvilinna (horn = sarvi = horn, borg = linna = castle), Helin > Urjanheimo (from the parish name Urjala), Stenius > Korpijaakko (old family tradition), Tengén > Tenkanen (back to the original family name), Wessman > Vesama (equally sounding), etc.

- The Virtanen Type

Family names reminding of the old names of the eastern type were constructed. The first part of the names are usually from nature: Virtanen (virta = stream), Nieminen (niemi = point), Salonen (salo = waste, desert), and Suominen (Suomi = Finland). Many of them are nowadays common Finnish names. It is also clear that people using these names are usually not related. Most of the Virtanen type of names were adopted from 1900 to 1910.

There is an excellent English article on Finnish naming system written by Leif Methner, published in the The Finnish American Reporter, August 2000, and available at: <http://www.genealogia.fi/emi/art/article216e.htm>

Chapter No. 2. As late as 1940 a new choral group still appeared on the scene, the Sorretun Ääni (Voice of the Downtrodden), made up principally of members of the former Chapter No. 2 chorus and still under the leadership of Lily Laakso; an independent group, this chorus remained in existence for about two years.

These organizations, of course, also had their own dramatics groups. Within the Workers Club, the roster of directors included John Lampi, Carl Lindeval, Henry Pyhtilä, Alaric Aarnee-Orjatsalo, Veikko Antero, Kalle Latvala, Edith Koivisto and Kalle Dahl, while dramatic activity at the Socialist Chapter No. 2 was directed by Hjalmar Hamari.

Gymnastics teams were also on the scene, and at the Workers Club they were under the guidance of Felix Brown, while Toivo Nurmio served the No. 2 group. Other names to be listed in this category include Herman Kari, with the Workers Club, and Lempi Mäki, with a cooperative-sponsored women's group.

An important role was played by the lending library. This had already been started by the temperance society but had

The Missing in Karelia Research Project

The Missing in Karelia research project studies the lives of Finnish Canadians who moved to Soviet Karelia during the 1920s and 1930s. The objective of the cooperative, multinational project is to understand the factors that produced the voluntary mass exodus known as "Karelia Fever".

These web pages are maintained using a traditional wiki, thus if you have used Wikipedia you should feel at home. You can always return to this page using the "Main Page" link in the left column. On this page there is also a link to the different entry pages for the three languages we to some extent support. The main language is English, but since we have lots of especially Swedish and also Finnish speaking visitors one can start the exploration of this material from entry pages in these languages as well.

These pages are - as usual - "under construction", thus there probably are loose ends and errors here and there. Feel welcome! Välkommen! Tervetuloa!

Emigration from Finland and Scandinavia - GENERAL

Guest articles: John Victor Johnson Odyssey from Finland to Florida by Sandra Johnson Witt

● Siirtolaisinstituutti Migrationsinstitutet The Institute of Migration  editor Jouni Korkiasaari. This is an eminent site with a wealth of well-organized information about Finnish emigration.

● Emigration from Finland  by the The Genealogical Society of Finland

● Finns Abroad by Olavi Koivukangas There may have been some Finns from Northern Scandinavia sailing with Leif Ericson or with other Norwegian Vikings who explored the New World a thousand years ago. But the documented Finnish presence in America starts with the "New Sweden" colony at the mouth of the Delaware River, in March 1638. The first four European nationalities to settle permanently in the present United States were the English, the Dutch, the Swedes and the Finns. Major contributions made by the early Finnish settlers in America were burn-beating, a new way to build log-cabins, and the art of living at peace with Indians. A descendant of these early Finns was John Morton who signed the USA Declaration of Independence in 1776.

Suomi sydämessä Finland in our Hearts

Juhla Turussa kaikille ulkosuomalaisille 1-4.7.2011

www.migrationinstitute.fi

The Institute of Migration is arranging a Festival "Finland in our Hearts" in Turku for expatriate Finns in July 2-4, 2011.

The program will include everything from seminars and lectures to pesäpallo and tango.

The city of Turku will be the European Capital of Culture in 2011 together with Tallinn. Turku offers discoveries and experiences for everyone. The summer sets the backdrop for the Medieval Market, the Turku Music Festival and various events along the River Aura. The unique Scandinavian archipelago opens up where the river ends.

We welcome Finns from near and far to take part in the event!
