The writing of this catalogue was made possible by a grant from the Uusimaa Regional Fund of the Finnish Cultural Foundation. I warmly thank them for their support.

Work on the catalogue was finished while working in a project led by Associate Professor Anu Lahtinen at the University of Helsinki. The ongoing project (2020–), 1500-luvun suomalaisten yhteisöt, liikkuvuus ja verkostot koneavusteisen lähdeanalyysin valossa, focuses on social networks in sixteenth-century Finland and develops computer-supported methods for the study of early modern sources. As one of its contributions, the project – funded by the Finnish Cultural Foundation – has digitized from originals all records included in this catalogue, significantly improving conditions for working on these sources. The images are available through the online service of the Finnish National Archives. I would like to very much thank Dr. Lahtinen for providing the means to finish this catalogue.

Introduction

Over the course of the sixteenth century Sweden developed into a centrally led nation state. At the heart of this process was the expansion of central and local administrative structures, especially those regarding taxation. As the new structures took hold, detailed cameral bookkeeping practices were implemented nation-wide and bookkeeping records began to be produced on an unprecedented scale. Gradually, this process resulted in tens of thousands of tax records from all over the country being accumulated and stored in Stockholm.

Today, these records – commonly known as Fogderäkenskaper (Swe) or Voudintilit (Fin), translated here as the Bailiffs' records – are preserved at the Swedish and Finnish National Archives. The Finnish collection consists of nine sections, one for each of eight Finnish provinces and a general section. The Finnish records are exceptionally well-preserved, and the collection covers nearly half a million folios divided into 7 291 shelf marks. All Finnish records have been digitized from microfilm (as well as some from originals) and are available online through the Finnish National Archives.

The collections are vast, and catalogues are essential for navigating them. Yet, the only full catalogue on the Finnish collection intended for scholarly use dates to the 1850's. This catalogue was produced by Dr. Edward Grönblad who oversaw the organizing of the Finnish collection after it was moved to Finland from Sweden. The catalogue has served many generations of scholars, but clearly no longer meets the requirements of modern scholarship. The only other modern catalogue on the Finnish material is by the present writer, covering the records of the Duchy of Johan, located in south-western Finland in 1556–1563.¹

The present catalogue

The catalogue at hand covers the section for the province of Nyland in the Finnish collection of the Bailiffs' records. The province of Nyland consisted of Raseborgs län in the west and Borgå län in the east. Kymmenegårds län was situated between Nyland and Karelen, and its records have been inconsistently divided between the archival series of these two provinces. Therefore, some of them are included here, while others are not. All in all, the records found in the series for Nyland consist of 780 shelf marks or c. 58 400 folios, making up roughly ten percent of the whole Helsinki collection (see further on for more details).

The structure of the catalogue is as follows: the cameral records are listed in the order of their shelf marks with headlines added for each year as well as for each bailiwick and bailiff. The shelf marks are then further divided into smaller units of bookkeeping when appropriate. The structure of the local administration is key for perceiving the material clearly. The bailiwick numbers provided are based on Johan Axel Almquist's classical work Den civila lokalförvaltningen i Sverige 1523–1630, which can be found online for consultation.² Almquist's bailiwick tables for Nyland have also been reproduced here, and ¹ The catalogue was published as an appendix to the dissertation: Eskola, Seppo, Archives, Accounting, and Accountability: Cameral Bookkeeping in Mid-Sixteenth-Century Sweden and the Duchy of Johan (1556–1563). University of Helsinki, 2020. <http://urn.fi/URN:ISBN:978-951-51-6872-6>.

² Almquist, J.A., Den civila lokalförvaltningen i Sverige 1523–1630. I–IV. Stockholm: P.A. Nordstedt och Söner 1917–1923 (I: 1917, II: 1919, III: 1917–1922, and IV: 1922–1923). The work has been digitized and they provide an overview of the structure of bailiwicks in Nyland. The tables can be found following this introduction.

The catalogue has been written in English as it follows the same format as the aforementioned catalogue on the records of the Duchy of Johan. Some bookkeeping terms and notes, however, are given in the original Swedish of the sources. There is no settled terminology for discussing the Bailiffs' records in English, and the choices that have been made follow the terminology established in the present writer's dissertation Archives, Accounting, and Accountability: Cameral Bookkeeping in Mid-Sixteenth-Century Sweden and the Duchy of Johan (1556–1563).³

To an extent, the catalogue at hand is a work-in-progress. It has been written over time with some parts of the collection receiving more attention than others and is published now with the intent to later produce an updated version.⁴ Alongside general improvements, the updated version is intended to incorporate information on the medieval parchment covers of the records.⁵ Hopefully, at its current stage, the catalogue will provide a useful tool for navigating the material, finding specific information, and contextualising records as parts of wider sets of bookkeeping. Feedback and suggestions for changes are welcome.

The records of Nyland

The records of Nyland cover slightly over ten percent of the Finnish Bailiffs' records. The following tables and diagrams aim to contextualize the material as part of the Helsinki collection as well as visualise its internal structure. The diagrams are based either on shelf marks or folios, both of which provide one point of view to the material. The shelf marks – despite dating to the nineteenth century – are rooted in sixteenth- and seventeenth-century practices as each shelf mark generally corresponds to a now-removed parchment cover. Typically, one shelf mark contains several units of bookkeeping, but one shelf mark can also correspond to just one unit or even only a part of one. Folios provide a more accurate image of the overall volume of bookkeeping but can also be misleading as they do not account for empty folios or different folio sizes and writing styles.

More information on the bailiffs' records can be found, e.g., through the brief list of selected literature following this introduction.

placed online by the ERC project Books of the Medieval Parish Church (National Library of Finland), see <https://urn.fi/URN:NBN:fi-fe2022033026181>.

⁴ Generally, earlier records have received more attention than later ones, records from the seventeenth century having been scrutinized least.

⁵ As is well known, the covers of the Finnish collection were separated from the records in the nineteenth century and can now be found at the Finnish National Library. Work on re-establishing a connection between the covers and the records is currently being undertaken as part of the ERC project Books of the Medieval Parish Church (2021–2025), hosted by the National Library and led by Dr. Jaakko Tahkokallio. For more on the project, see: <https://www2.helsinki.fi/en/researchgroups/books-of-the-medieval-parish-church>.

Bailiwick tables

The following tables are based on those published by J.A. Almquist in the third volume of his work Den civila lokalförvaltningen i Sverige 1523–1630 (I–IV 1917–1923). Some simplifications have been made and some information not directly concerning the bailiwicks has been omitted. The original tables are available online as part of Almquist's study (see 'Literature'). The numbers used in the tables refer to individual bailiwicks and show their structure at any given time. Detailed descriptions can be found in the second volume of Almquist's work. The highlight colours serve only as visual aids.

Layout, terminology, and abbreviations

The records are labelled by type and contextualized by providing the year, bailiwick number, bailiff, bailiwick category, and writing context appropriate for each record. The bailiwick numbers are based on Almquist 1917–1923 (see the bailiwick tables). The provenances of the records are signalled with highlight colours: blue for the central administration, grey for unclear provenance, and no highlighting for locally composed records. At times, individual records have been analysed in detail, while some have been afforded less attention. The provenances have therefore been assigned by a combination of generalizations and specific analyses and should be taken as suggestions.⁶

The layout of the information is as follows:

	Year	Bailiff	Record type	Bailiwick type	Folios per year

A	=	Folios in the agenda format ⁷
Qto	=	Folios in the quarto format
s	=	Seal

⁶ The catalogue is rooted in the research found in the present writer's dissertation (Eskola 2020), and for more information on the overall thinking and choices made, see said dissertation generally and, more specifically, the introduction (p. 1 ff.) and "Notes on administrative terminology" (pp. 18–19).

⁷ A format where a sheet of paper is folded twice on the long edge to produce a tall and narrow booklet.
